Division of Narcotics Enforcement

Motion:

Move to provide $34,900 PR in 1997-98 and $23,200 PR in 1998-99 to establish a regional office under the Department of Justice, Division of Narcotics Enforcement, which would be located in Wausau. Funding would be provided from a newly-created crime laboratory assessment. The motion includes one-time funding of $17,000 in 1997-98 for equipment costs.

Note:

Under Senate Bill 77, a crime laboratory assessment of $4 would be created on all convictions for arrests that occur on or after January 1, 1998. The assessment would apply to any violation of state law, county ordinance and municipal ordinance, except for violations of smoking laws, nonmoving traffic violations or safety belt use violations. Under the bill, revenue from the fee is estimated at $600,000 in 1997-98 and $2,600,000 in 1998-99.

This motion would provide $34,900 PR in 1997-98 and $23,200 PR in 1998-99 from the crime laboratory assessment to establish a regional office of the Division of Narcotics Enforcement in Wausau. According to Department officials, the office would be staffed by a reorganization of current Division staff.

Victim/Witness Assistance -- Surcharge on Juveniles (Justice)

[LFB Summary: Page 361, #6 (part)]

CURRENT LAW

The Wisconsin Constitution requires the state to provide certain privileges and protections to victims of crime. Statutes place the responsibility for enforcement of victim and witness rights and the provision of services with each county in Wisconsin. Counties are eligible for reimbursement of up to 90% of their costs of providing the services. Counties may decide not to enforce these rights or provide services, in which case they would not receive reimbursement from the state. /Currently, 64 counties operate victim/witness programs, and it is expected that six more counties will be operating programs by December, 1997./

Base funding for state reimbursement of county victim/witness program operating costs includes the following: (a) $1,741,200 from the part A of the victim/witness surcharge (a $30 surcharge on all misdemeanor offenses and a $50 surcharge on all felony offenses); (b) $1,497,100 from general purpose revenues; and (c) $850,800 from federal grant funds administered by the Office of Justice Assistance. The total funding of $4,089,100 is expected to provide reimbursement of approximately 76% of county costs in 1996-97.

GOVERNOR

Provide $600,000 PR annually to increase reimbursement to counties for the costs of operating victim/witness programs. A portion of the increase in funding ($75,000 in 1997-98 and $200,000 in 1998-99) would come from a new delinquency victim and witness surcharge of $20 on juveniles adjudicated delinquent, effective on the date of enactment of the bill. Provide that if the juvenile does not pay the surcharge, as ordered, the court could vacate the surcharge and order other alternatives or, after a notice and hearing, could suspend the juvenile's hunting, fishing or driver's license for not less than 30 days and for up to five years (or until the surcharge is paid). The parent with custody could be held liable for payment. The court could also order that the juvenile perform community services work in lieu of paying the surcharge or, if the parent agrees, the court could order the parent to perform community service work in lieu of paying the surcharge. Under the bill, if a juvenile placed in a secured correctional facility or secured child caring institution fails to pay the surcharge, the Department of Corrections would be required to collect the amount owed from the juvenile's wages or other moneys.

DISCUSSION POINTS

1. State statutes provide that counties may receive reimbursement of up to 90% of their costs of operating victim/witness programs. Due to an increased number of counties providing services and the increased costs of the services, the amount of funding available has allowed for reimbursement of approximately 78% to 83% of counties' costs in recent years. In 1996-97, funding is expected to be available to fund 76% of counties' costs. The appropriated amounts under the bill are estimated to provide 82% reimbursement to counties in 1997-98 and 79% reimbursement in 1998-99.

2. The increased funding under the bill assumes a 5% increase in revenues from the current victim/witness surcharge and includes $75,000 in 1997-98 and $200,000 in 1998-99 in estimated revenues from a new surcharge on juveniles adjudicated delinquent. This estimate is based on a total of 20,000 delinquency cases filed annually, with at least one-half of these cases ending in adjudication and paying the surcharge.

3. It should be noted that, under the bill, the surcharge would be effective on the date of enactment of the bill. However, a technical correction is needed to clarify that the surcharge would be effective for adjudications for arrests that occur on, or after, the effective date. In addition, most changes in court fees have a delayed effective date of October 1, so that they can be incorporated into the annual fee schedules produced by the Courts. Therefore, the Committee may want to modify the bill to provide that the new surcharge on juveniles be effective for adjudications for arrests that occur on, or after, October 1, 1997, to be consistent with other modifications in court fees.

4. According to DOJ, historically, most victim/witness assistance programs have not served victims of juvenile crime. However, 1995 Act 77, which revised the juvenile justice code, extends the same rights to victims and witnesses of acts committed by juveniles as provided to victims and witnesses of other crimes. As a result of the new services and inflationary increases in costs of providing services, DOJ estimates county victim/witness services costs to increase 5% annually. The new juvenile surcharge would offset a portion of these costs.

5. Given the revenue assumptions and expenditure levels under the bill, it would be expected that the victim/witness program would end the 1997-99 biennium with a deficit of $147,800. However, it appears that the estimate of revenues from the new juvenile surcharge in 1997-98 may be understated. Assuming the surcharge is effective October 1, 1997, and there is a three-month lag time for revenues to start accumulating, it could be expected that revenues would total at least $100,000 in 1997-98, rather than the $75,000 estimated under the bill. Therefore, it would be expected that the victim/witness program would end the biennium with a deficit of $122,800.

6. Based on these reestimates, the appropriation should be adjusted by -$19,000 in 1997-98 and -$103,800 in 1998-99. This level of funding would provide reimbursement of 82% of counties' costs in 1997-98 and 77% in 1998-99. This would be an average reimbursement of 79% of counties' costs, consistent with the levels provided in recent years.

7. It should be noted that if surcharge revenues do not increase 5% annually, funding would not likely be available for reimbursement of 79% of county victim/witness program operating costs. In addition, if the surcharge on juveniles is not approved, available funding would cover an average of 74% of counties' costs.

ALTERNATIVES TO BASE

1. Approve the Governor's recommendation to provide $600,000 PR annually to increase funding available for reimbursement of counties' costs of operating victim/witness programs. In addition, create a $20 surcharge on juveniles adjudicated delinquent, technically corrected to apply to adjudications for arrests that occur on, or after, the effective date of enactment, to be deposited to the victim/witness program. Create statutory provisions for collection procedures, sanctions for non-payment and alternatives to payment of the surcharge.

2. Approve the Governor's recommendation, as technically corrected, with the following modifications: (a) reduce funding appropriated for county victim/witness program reimbursement by $19,000 PR in 1997-98 and $103,800 PR in 1998-99 to reflect reestimates of program revenues; and (b) provide that the effective date of the new surcharge would be October 1, 1997, and would apply to adjudications for arrests that occur on, or after, the effective date.

Eliminate Bankruptcy Positions (Justice)

[LFB Summary: Page 362, #8]

CURRENT LAW

Under 1995 Wisconsin Act 27, the Department of Justice (DOJ) was authorized a total of 5.5 PR positions for an initiative to collect tax liabilities in bankruptcy cases. DOJ was authorized to: (a) monitor bankruptcy cases in Wisconsin and other states; (b) notify state agencies affected by bankruptcy cases; and (c) represent the interests of the state in bankruptcy cases and related proceedings. It was expected that the initiative would generate GPR-Earned of $938,000 in 1995-96 and $1,876,000 in 1996-97 from recoveries of tax obligations. However, to date, no revenue has been collected by DOJ from tax liabilities in bankruptcy cases. Collections of $210,700 in 1995-96 and $186,200 in 1996-97, through May 9, 1997, have been recovered in obligations owed to other state agencies. Statutes provide that the reasonable and necessary expenses incurred by the Department relating to these collections be deposited in a program revenue appropriation, which supports the positions. Adjusted base funding is $347,800 PR. DOJ has retained $7,500 in 1995-96 and $29,400 to date in 1996-97, which has been deposited to the PR appropriation to offset DOJ costs. No revenue has been deposited in the general fund under DOJ.

GOVERNOR

Delete $347,800 PR and 5.5 PR positions annually due to insufficient revenue generated from the DOJ bankruptcy initiative. In addition, delete an associated $300,000 in GPR-Earned annually. Statutory authority to handle bankruptcy proceedings would remain and any revenue collected in the future would be deposited to the general fund (after the current deficit in the appropriation is paid off).

DISCUSSION POINTS

1. In its budget request, DOJ proposed continuing its initiative to collect tax liabilities in bankruptcy cases. However, given the current amount of revenue generated from these cases, it is clear that funding is not available to support the currently authorized level of resources. In addition, the Department of Revenue already dedicates resources to collecting delinquent tax obligations in bankruptcy cases and has better access to the type of information to pursue these cases.

2. DOJ officials argue that 1.5 of the 5.5 positions that would be eliminated under the bill are involved in collections of debt owed to other state agencies, including accounts, charges, claims, debts, fees, fines, forfeitures, interest, judgments, loans, penalties and taxes and should be continued. These 1.5 positions (1.0 paralegal and 0.5 attorney) were converted from GPR to PR under Act 27, as part of the larger collections initiative.

3. DOJ indicates that collections of obligations owed to the state totalled $210,700 in 1995-96 and $186,200, to date, in 1996-97. DOJ currently retains 17% of collections to cover program costs. However, because the program was new, DOJ did not start retaining 17% of these funds as program revenue until late in the year in 1995-96. Therefore, only $7,900 was deposited to the program revenue account in that year, and $29,400 has been deposited to the appropriation so far this fiscal year.

4. DOJ indicates that while collections in these types of cases have been low, it currently has open 87 cases involving unpaid obligations to the state, with a total value of $2.6 million. DOJ officials anticipate that $1.7 million of this will be recovered over the 1997-99 biennium, if the 1.5 positions are continued. If DOJ continues to retain 17% of collections, available program revenue funding would total $289,000 for the next biennium. The cost to continue the 1.5 positions would be $100,200 annually.

5. While state statutes clearly provide that collections proceeds be forwarded to the state treasurer to be deposited to the appropriate fund, after covering reasonable and necessary expenses incurred by DOJ, the statutes are unclear as to what types of collections cases to which this authority applies. DOA officials argue that it only relates to bankruptcy cases. Therefore, if the Committee decides to continue the 1.5 PR positions to pursue debts owed to other state agencies, it may wish to clarify the language governing recoupment of DOJ's costs to allow DOJ to retain an amount equal to the reasonable and necessary expenses incurred by the Department in cases involving collections of delinquent obligations owed to any state agencies.

6. It is expected that the delinquency obligation appropriation which receives revenue to support the positions will have a deficit of $78,800 on June 30, 1997. However, under the bill, while the authority for DOJ to pursue these cases would remain, resources to do so would be eliminated. If the 1.5 positions are continued to pursue debts owed to the state and the authority to cover their costs is clarified, DOJ indicates that funding would be available to erase the deficit and fund the ongoing costs of the positions.

7. If the positions are not continued, DOJ will have to address the deficit in some other manner. Under s. 16.513, if an agency's program revenue appropriation has a negative balance, the agency is required to submit a plan to the Department of Administration to assure that revenues are sufficient to cover projected expenditures. If approved by DOA, the plan is submitted to the Joint Committee on Finance under a 14-day passive review process. If the Committee chooses to meet on the plan, no part of the plan may be implemented without approval of the Committee or through legislation.

8. DOJ has not submitted such a plan to DOA, even though, under the bill, they would not generate funds to cover the deficit. Therefore, if the 1.5 positions are not continued, the Committee may want to direct DOJ to submit a plan, under s. 16.513, by September 1, 1997.

9. Alternatively, if authority is not provided for the 1.5 positions, the Committee could provide one-time funding of $78,800 GPR in 1997-98 to eliminate the deficit. Proceeds from any liabilities to the state pursued by DOJ in the future would be deposited to the general fund; however, few cases would likely be pursued.

ALTERNATIVES TO BASE

1. Approve the Governor's recommendation to delete $347,800 PR and 5.5 PR positions annually associated with DOJ's bankruptcy initiative. In addition, delete the $300,000 in GPR-Earned that was expected to be generated in collections of tax obligations in bankruptcy cases.

Appeals Attorney -- Sexual Predators (Justice)

CURRENT LAW

1993 Wisconsin Act 479 (the sexual predator law) created Chapter 980, which provides for involuntary civil commitment of sexually violent persons to secure mental facilities prior to their release from custody of the Department of Corrections (DOC) or the Department of Health and Family Services (DHFS). A "sexually violent person" is defined as someone who has been: (1) convicted of a sexually violent offense; (2) adjudicated delinquent for a sexually violent offense; or (3) found not guilty of, or not responsible for, a sexually violent offense by reason of insanity or mental disease, defect or illness.

Each person committed as a sexually violent person may petition for supervised release every six months and for discharge every year. The person has a right to an appeal of the commitment and every decision on supervisory release or discharge. Appeals are handled by the Department of Justice (DOJ).

GOVERNOR

Provide $48,900 GPR in 1997-98 and $56,400 in 1998-99 and 1.0 attorney position annually for an appellate attorney to handle an increased workload associated with sexual predator cases. It should be noted that, according to the executive budget book, the position would be a project position, which would expire June 30, 1999. However, a permanent position would be created under the bill.

DISCUSSION POINTS

1. Chapter 980 became effective on June 2, 1994. Since then, DOJ has handled a total of 61 appeals of these cases in the Wisconsin Court of Appeals (10 of those did not involve an appeal of a Chapter 980 decision, but involved another issue such as ineffective assistance of counsel). Two cases are currently pending in the Wisconsin Supreme Court and two more have petitions for review pending. In four cases, petitions have been filed in the U.S. Supreme Court. In addition, the constitutionality of a similar sexual predator law, in Kansas, is currently under consideration in the U.S. Supreme Court; DOJ has filed an amicus brief in the support of the Kansas law. There is also one case in Federal District Court which has been stayed pending the Supreme Court decision of the Kansas law.

2. DOJ expects the number of sexual predator appeals to increase in the next few years. It is expected that many appeals will be filed when the U.S. Supreme Court issues an opinion on the Kansas law. The Department indicates that regardless of how the Court rules, appeals will be filed seeking clarification of the impact on the Wisconsin law. DOJ also indicates that, since Chapter 980 is relatively new, many cases have not yet reached the appeals stage. Further, an additional 48 persons may be committed, under the sexual predator law, each year. The amount of appellate work associated with these cases will have a cumulative effect, since many of the individuals may face a lifetime commitment, yet have a right to three petitions a year (two for supervisory release and one for discharge) and can appeal those decisions.

3. The number of DOJ appeals cases has increased over 70% over the last eight years. Over that same period, the number of appellate attorneys has increased only 20%. DOJ currently has 18.0 attorneys assigned to the appeals unit and, in 1996, each attorney handled an average of 43 appeals cases. This compares with an average of 30 cases that DOJ attorneys were budgeted to handle eight years ago.

4. In addition, DOJ officials indicate that the complexity and seriousness of issues involved in the appeals cases are greater than they were eight years ago, in part, because of new laws such as the sexual predator law.

5. DOJ indicates that it lacks the resources to handle the current number of appeals and will not be able to absorb the expected increase resulting from sexual predator cases. In its budget request, DOJ requested 2.0 appellate attorneys to handle sexual predator cases, in addition to other appeals. They indicate that if they do not receive additional resources, their ability to successfully defend state laws would be impeded.

6. Given the current appellate workload, the Committee could consider providing two appeals attorneys as requested by DOJ. The additional cost to the bill would be $48,900 GPR in 1997-98 and $56,400 in 1998-99.

7. Because of the uncertainty of the U.S. Supreme Court decision on the constitutionality of the Wisconsin sexual predator law, the executive budget book indicates that a project position is being provided. However, under the bill, a permanent position is created. Therefore, if the Committee approves the position, a technical correction would be needed to provide for a project, rather than a permanent, position. Further, if the Committee adopts an alternative that would provide two appeals attorneys, both positions could be made project and the overall appeals workload could be reassessed in the next biennium.

ALTERNATIVES TO BASE

Approve the Governor's recommendation, as technically corrected, to provide $48,900 GPR in 1997-98 and $56,400 GPR in 1998-99 and 1.0 GPR project position annually for a DOJ appeals attorney to handle an increased workload associated with sexual predator cases. ### Sheriff Fees in Real Estate Sales (Justice)

CURRENT LAW

Sheriffs receive a fee of $50, of which $25 must be prepaid by the owner of the property and is nonrefundable, for costs involved with the sale of real estate by the sheriff or other officers, under judgment or court order.

GOVERNOR

Increase, to $150, the fees paid to sheriffs for activities related to the sale of real estate by a sheriff or other officer, under a judgment or court order. Provide that $75 of the fee would be prepaid and nonrefundable. The increased fees would apply to sales commenced on, or after, the effective date of the bill.

DISCUSSION POINTS

1. Sheriff fees in real estate sales are intended to cover the costs of advertising, issuing certificates of sale, drawing, executing and acknowledging a deed pursuant to sale, posting notices of the sheriff's sale, recording a certificate of sale with the register of deeds and travel required in making the sale. The owner of the property pays the fee, which is typically a bank holding the mortgage in a foreclosure case.

2. There is no state fiscal effect associated with this provision because fees are retained by the county. In addition, there is no information on the number of incidents in which sheriffs sell real estate or on the amount of fees currently collected. Therefore, the impact on counties of the increase in fees cannot be assessed.

3. Some counties have indicated that the current $50 fee does not cover their costs. Milwaukee County officials indicate that, in 1996, sheriffs' expenses associated with sales of foreclosed properties cost county taxpayers $7,000. However, costs and revenues in other counties are not known. According to an unofficial survey by the Wisconsin Bankers Association, many counties spend little, if any, on advertising and selling the property. Instead, the property is typically sold in an auction.

4. Under current law, in addition to sales of real estate, sheriffs collect statutorily-set fees for services of summons or other processes, executions on judgments, travel in certain civil and criminal processes, collection of money, copies, advertising personal property, seizures and evictions of property, and notices of sales of personal property. Higher fees may be established by the county board for some of these activities, namely for services of summons or other processes, executions on judgments and travel in certain civil and criminal processes.

5. / An alternative to the Governor's recommendation would be to allow county boards to establish higher fees for sheriffs in real estate actions. This would allow counties which incur higher costs to assess these fees accordingly. /

6. It should be noted that 1997 Assembly Bill 199, introduced March 27, 1997, would also modify these fees. AB 199 would allow sheriffs to retain one percent of the sale price of the real estate. In addition, the bill would increase the nonrefundable, prepaid deposit from $25 to $75.

7. While information on current revenues or expenses of sheriffs involved in real estate sales is not available, it appears that the Governor's proposal is an effort to bring the fee in line with actual expenses incurred by sheriffs. Under the fee structure proposed in AB 199, it appears that revenues could exceed expenses, since a fee based on one percent of sales, particularly with large properties, might not be representative of actual costs incurred.

ALTERNATIVES TO BASE

1. Approve the Governor's recommendation to increase, from $50 to $150, the fee paid to sheriffs related to the sale of real estate by a sheriff or other officer. In addition, provide that $75 of the fee would be prepaid and nonrefundable. The increased fee would be effective for sales commenced after the effective date of the bill.

②. Do not increase the statutory fee paid to sheriffs in real estate sales. Instead, authorize county boards to establish higher fees for sheriffs in real estate sales.

3. Take no action.

Cap on Sheriff Fees in Real Estate Sales

Motion:

Move to authorize county boards to establish higher fees for sheriffs in real estate sales, and provide that these fees could not exceed $150.

Note:

Under current law, a fee of $50 is paid to sheriffs related to the sale of real estate by a sheriff or other officer, of which $25 must be prepaid by the owner of the property and is not refundable. Under SB 77, this fee would be increased to $150, of which $75 would be prepaid and nonrefundable. This motion would keep the statutory fee at $50, and would authorize county boards to establish higher fees, not to exceed $150.

Sheriffs' Procedures in Sales of Real Estate

Motion:

Move to require sheriffs, prior to conducting a sale of foreclosed property, to contact the clerk of the federal bankruptcy court, to ascertain whether there has been a stay of relief granted on that property.

Note:

Current law does not require sheriffs to contact the federal bankruptcy court to determine whether a stay of relief has been granted related to the sale of a foreclosed property. Therefore, it is possible for the sheriff to go forth with the sale, and later discover a stay of relief has been granted by the federal bankruptcy court.

ISSUE

Indian Law Initiative (Justice)

CURRENT LAW

The Division of Legal Services in the Department of Justice (DOJ) provides legal representation and advice to the Governor, Legislature, other state officers and state agencies, and renders legal opinions to county corporation counsel, district attorneys, the Legislature and state agencies. In addition, it has primary responsibility to take court action to enforce certain state laws, including environmental, antitrust, consumer protection and medicaid fraud laws, and limited jurisdiction to enforce certain criminal laws. The Division also represents the state's interests in state and federal appellate courts and in all felony cases on appeal, and defends state employees, state officers and state agencies in certain civil actions.

GOVERNOR

No provision.

DISCUSSION POINTS

1. In its budget request, the Department of Justice requested $89,000 GPR and 2.0 GPR positions (1.0 attorney and 1.0 legal secretary) in 1997-98 and $247,500 GPR and 4.0 GPR positions (3.0 attorneys and 1.0 legal secretary) in 1998-99 to create an Indian litigation unit.

2. DOJ officials indicate that there has been a major increase in litigation involving the state and Indian tribes, and that these cases are complex and present fundamental challenges to the authority of Wisconsin to exercise its sovereign powers within the territorial boundaries of the state. The type of work DOJ is currently involved in includes the following: (1) claims related to the rights of Menominee tribal members to hunt, fish and gather over the eastern third of Wisconsin (currently on appeal); (2) reservation boundary claims by the Oneida Tribe in Brown County (currently on appeal); (3) ongoing advice to local governments regarding expansion of Indian trust land status; (4) challenges by the tribes to the federal Clean Water Act concerning reservation waters; (5) administrative proceedings before federal agencies in trust land status, the Clean Water Act and the Clean Air Act; (6) preparation of amicus briefs in support of other states' authority in cases involving challenges from Indian tribes which may have national implications; and (7) other legal challenges to state authority over various matters including natural resources, law enforcement issues and adoption proceedings.

3. In order to address issues involving Indian litigation, DOJ has had to assign attorneys from other litigation units, mainly the environmental unit, to work on these cases. DOJ currently has 95.6 FTE attorney positions assigned to eight litigation units including: (a) civil litigation (16.0 attorneys); (b) contracts (8.0 attorneys); criminal appeals (19.05 attorneys); (c) criminal litigation, antitrust and consumer protection (14.8 attorneys); (d) employment (12.4 attorneys); (e) environmental (11.15 attorneys); (f) government operations and administrative law (11.7 attorneys) and medicaid fraud (2.5 attorneys).

4. DOJ indicates that in order to handle the current cases involving Indian litigation, work in other units has been set aside. For example, prosecution in at least two environmental cases has been delayed and, according to DOJ, the longer the delay, the harder it is to impress upon the court the importance of the violation. In addition, with cases relating to Indian law increasing, the lack of DOJ resources may mean some cases ultimately going unprosecuted. As a result, if more resources are not provided, the Department argues that the state could potentially lose much more than the cost of the additional positions.

5. The Attorney General, in his address to the Joint Finance Committee, reiterated the need for additional state resources in this area. He indicated that a special unit for Indian litigation would allow the Department to develop more expertise in these areas and expand its ability to assist local governments.

6. Given that the amount of Indian litigation is a relatively new phenomenon, it is difficult to tell what the future workload will be. If DOJ's success in defending the state's rights in these cases continues, the number of cases filed in the future may diminish. Therefore, the Committee could consider providing additional resources to DOJ on a project basis through June 30, 1999. This would allow the Department to devote resources to the current cases which could set precedence and reduce the number of cases in the future. Caseload could then be reviewed during 1999-01 budget deliberations.

7. DOJ indicates that a minimum of three attorneys and a legal secretary would be needed to establish a unit to handle the current and projected Indian law work and to assist local governments. DOJ officials indicate that two attorneys are currently working on Indian litigation full time, with assistance from additional attorneys. It could be argued that DOJ could continue using attorneys from other units, as needed, to assist with these cases. In addition, the Department's request for three attorneys also reflected anticipated legal assistance concerning Indian gaming compact negotiations. Previous action by the Joint Finance Committee (April 30, 1997) would provide an attorney position and legal assistance contract funds to DOA for these negotiations. This would lessen (although not necessarily eliminate) the involvement of DOJ attorneys in the negotiations. Therefore, the Committee could provide two attorneys and one-half legal secretary to allow DOJ to continue devoting the current level of resources to Indian litigation without reducing the number of attorneys working on other litigation. This alternative would cost $73,500 GPR and 1.5 project positions (one attorney and one-half legal secretary) in 1997-98 and $154,100 GPR and 2.5 project positions (two attorneys and one-half legal secretary) in 1998-99.

8. / Alternatively, the Committee could provide $57,300 GPR in 1997-98 and $69,000 GPR in 1998-99 and 1.0 GPR project position annually to provide one attorney to coordinate DOJ Indian litigation. Under this alternative, at least one position would be dedicated to Indian law issues and attorneys from other units could be used as caseload allows./

9. It should be noted that if the Committee were to approve DOJ's request for three attorneys and one legal secretary, the level of funding identified by DOJ should be reduced by $3,200 in 1997-98 and $8,300 in 1998-99 to reflect the actual cost of the positions (total costs to the bill would be $85,800 in 1997-98 and $239,200 in 1998-99). In addition, the positions could be made project positions, subject to review in the next biennium.

ALTERNATIVES TO BASE

1. Provide $85,800 GPR and 2.0 project positions (1.0 attorney and 1.0 legal secretary) in 1997-98 and $239,200 and 4.0 project positions (3.0 attorneys and 1.0 legal secretary) in 1998-99 to create an Indian litigation unit under DOJ's Division of Legal Services. ## ISSUE

Handgun Hotline Deficit (Justice)

CURRENT LAW

A person is prohibited from possessing a firearm if he or she has been: (a) convicted of a felony in Wisconsin or was convicted of a crime elsewhere that would be a felony if committed in the state; (b) adjudicated delinquent for an act committed on or after April 24, 1994, that if committed by an adult in this state would be a felony; (c) found not guilty in this state (or an equivalent offense elsewhere) by reason of mental disease or defect; (d) involuntarily committed for treatment and ordered by a court not to possess a firearm; (e) subject to a domestic abuse or child abuse restraining order or injunction; or (f) ordered by a court not to possess a firearm, based on evidence that the person may use a firearm to cause physical harm to another or endanger public safety. A person meeting one of these criteria who possesses a firearm is guilty of a Class E felony.

When a firearms dealer sells a handgun, he or she may not transfer possession of that handgun until: (1) the dealer has provided information to and requested a firearms restrictions record search from the Department of Justice (DOJ); and (2) 48 hours have lapsed, subject to extension under certain circumstances, and DOJ has not notified the dealer that the transfer would be a violation of state law. An $8 fee is assessed on firearms dealers (who may pass the charge on to the purchaser) for each background check. The revenues from the fee are provided to DOJ for the cost of operating the record check program. Base funding is $305,900 and 8.0 FTE (1.0 director, 1.0 programmer and 6.0 operators).

GOVERNOR

No provision.

DISCUSSION POINTS

1. It is expected that the handgun hotline program revenue appropriation will end 1996-97 with a deficit of $230,900. For the 1997-99 biennium, annual handgun hotline revenues are estimated at $222,100 and expenditures, under the bill, total $326,800 annually. As a result, it is estimated that the handgun hotline appropriation will end the 1997-99 biennium with a deficit of $440,300.

2. On May 13, 1996, DOA Secretary Klauser requested DOJ to submit a plan under s. 16.513 regarding a proposal to assure that there would be sufficient handgun hotline revenues to meet projected expenditures. DOJ responded by indicating that the handgun hotline deficit would be addressed in DOJ's 1997-99 budget request. Secretary Klauser subsequently concurred that it would be appropriate for the deficit to be addressed in the context of the 1997-99 budget.

3. In its budget request, DOJ proposed requiring gun dealers to do firearms restrictions record searches on buyers prior to sale of all guns, not just handguns, beginning November 30, 1998. This proposal was in response to a requirement under the federal Brady Law, which requires criminal searches on long gun buyers by November 30, 1998. DOJ estimated that the expansion in the number of record searches conducted would result in additional revenue of $224,000 in 1998-99, and $384,000 annually thereafter. Total revenues from checks on all gun buyers was estimated at $606,100 per year, and DOJ projected that the deficit would be corrected in 1999-00.

4. / DOA officials indicate that the proposal was not included as part of the Governor's budget recommendations because it was felt that the issue would be better addressed in separate legislation. DOJ has indicated that it will seek legislation to have background checks required on the purchase of all guns by the federal deadline. It is expected that the deficit would be resolved through this legislation. /

5. The Committee could consider an increase in the $8 fee assessed for each firearm restrictions search to cover the deficit for this biennium. Assuming a September 1, 1997, effective date, the fee would have to be increased to $15 to cover the projected deficit.

6. Alternatively, the Committee could take no action, with the expectation that DOJ will submit legislation to require checks on purchasers of all guns beginning no later than November 30, 1998, in accordance with federal legislation. It is estimated that the additional revenues generated through the increased number of background checks to be conducted under this legislation would result in a positive balance in the handgun hotline appropriation by fiscal year 1999-00.

ALTERNATIVES TO BASE

1. Increase the fee for criminal record checks required of handgun purchasers from $8 to $15, effective September 1, 1997, to eliminate the handgun hotline deficit.

2. Take no action at this time and address the deficit and other issues related to the gun hotline through the separate legislation that the Attorney General is drafting for introduction.

ISSUE*Minor Policy and Technical Changes -- Sexual Predator Prosecutors (Justice)*Governor

No Provision.

Modification to Previous JFC Amendment

Delete $17,500 GPR in 1997-98 and $12,800 GPR in 1998-99 for legal expenses and supplies and services associated with a DOJ attorney position deleted from the bill, as amended by the Committee.

Explanation: The Governor recommended four additional assistant district attorneys to handle sexual predator cases on a regional basis, including one each for Brown, Dane, Milwaukee and Marathon Counties. Under alternative #4 of LFB paper #345, the Committee modified the bill to eliminate the ADAs for Brown, Dane and Marathon Counties, and instead provided 3.0 attorneys to DOJ to handle sexual predator cases statewide. Motion #1064 modified the alternative by restoring the regional sexual predator position to Brown County and eliminating one DOJ attorney. The state pays only for salary and fringe benefit costs associated with assistant district attorneys. Alternative #4 approved by the Committee included $17,500 GPR in 1997-98 and $12,800 GPR in 1998-99, under DOJ, for legal expenses and supplies and service associated with one attorney position. However, when the alternative was modified, under motion #1064, the additional funding associated with the DOJ position was not removed.

Motion:

Move to transfer 34.0 GPR positions (10.5 program assistants, 11.0 regulation compliance investigators, 10.0 consumer specialists, 0.5 legal secretary, 1.0 program and planning analyst and 1.0 attorney) and $1,668,900 GPR in 1998-99 and transfer consumer protection authority from the Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection to the Department of Justice, effective July 1, 1998. In addition, delete $137,200 GPR and $93,900 SEG in 1998-99 and eliminate 3.0 GPR regulation compliance investigators and 1.0 SEG attorney under the Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection. Further, rename the Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection the Department of Agriculture and Trade.

Note:

1995 Act 27 transferred $701,200 GPR and 13.8 GPR positions from DOJ to DATCP and provided an additional 3.0 GPR positions for DATCP to perform most of the state's consumer protection functions. DOJ retained 9.3 positions including 4.8 attorneys, 1.0 administrative assistant, 1.5 legal secretaries and 2.0 compliance investigators, to commence actions and to conduct limited investigations relating to violations of the state's fraudulent advertising laws and telecommunications trade practices, and to recover civil forfeitures for violations of injunctions under the state's fraudulent advertising statutes, drug pricing statutes and unfair trade practices.,

This motion would transfer all DATCP staff and funding related to consumer protection, except for 4.0 positions that would be eliminated, to DOJ. Under this motion, consumer protection responsibilities transferred to DOJ would include: (a) fraudulent representations (DATCP would retain some authority relating to actions involving trade practices); (b) fraudulent drug advertising; (c) telecommunication services; (d) fitness center and weight reduction contracts; (e) future service plans; (f) allegations of unfair practices (DATCP would retain some authority relating to actions involving trade practices); (g) motor vehicle rustproofing warranties; (g) penalties: marketing and trade practices; (h) ticket refunds; (i) cable television subscriber rights; (i) dating service contracts; (j) pawnbrokers and secondhand article and jewelry dealers; (k) prize notices; (l) mail-order sales; (m) motor fuel dealerships; (n) vehicles--financial responsibility: damage waivers and penalties; (o) self-service storage areas; (p) time share ownership deposits, escrow requirements remedies and penalties; and (q) prepaid maintenance liens. DATCP would retain authority relating to trade practices under s. 100.18 and s. 100.20.
